MILLS, REAGAN AND CULBERSON OUT FOR THE SENATORSHIP.

Mills Has Lost His Hold in Texas and Has the Fight of His Life on His Hands - Several Dark Horses Are Being Groomed.

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 13.-(Special.) There are but few if any states in the Union in which the campaign of next year will be of more interest than in Texas. This condition of affairs will be due perhaps more to the prominence of the candidates before the people than any other reason, for men of national reputation are to figure in it to an extent beyond the ordinary. For instance, the announced candidates for the United States senate are Roger Q. Mills, of Corsicana, the present incumbent, who came into prominence as the chairman of the ways and means committee in past Democratic congresses and later in the heated speakership contest of the Fiftysecond congress; John H. Reagan, of Palestine. for twenty years a prominent figure in both the senate and the house at Washington, and who divides with Senator Shelby M. Cullom of Ilianols whatever of honor may attach to the paternity of the interstate commerce bill; and Chas. A. Culberson, the present governor of the state.

For the chief magistracy of the state the announced candidates for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination are Hon. Joseph D. Sayers, of Bastrop, the present senior Democratic member of the congressional appropriations committee and who was the chairman of that committee in the Fiftysecond and Fifty-third congresses. Martin M. Crane, of Cleburne, the present attorney general of the state and who has also served a term as lieutenant governor; ex-Senator R. M. Wynne, of Fort Worth; George T. Jester, of Corsicana, the present lieutenant governor of the state, and J. W. Blake, of Mexia, the present chairman of the state central committee.

Contest Alrendy Warming Up.

While the election is a year distant, the contest, so far as the Democracy is concerned, is already warming up at a ratio rapidly approximating the sizzling stage. As strange as it may seem, the contest so far gives token of being one in which nerve will predominate in contradistinction to issues, for all candidates are prominently identified with the free silver wing of their party and thoroughly en rapport with it upon all questions of interest engaging the attention of the public.

So far the chief interest centers in the senatorial contest.

So far the chief interest centers in the senatorial contest.

A feature of the brewing fight is that all of the aspirants have long since become post graduates in the school of machine Democratic politics. Millis began his office holding career as a member of the Texas legislature in 1859, and with the outbreak of the civil war he entered the Confederate service as a commissioned officer, emerging as colonel of the Tenth Texas cavalry. During the reconstruction period he was forced to earn his livelihood by the practice of law, until in 1873 he was elected to congress, where he served continuously up to the meeting of the special legislative session in 1892, when he was elevated to the senate to fill out an unexpired term. In 1893, he was chosen for the full term of six years and now desires to succeed himself.

Reagan began his officeholding career in red for the senate to fill out an unexpired term. In 1892, when he was elevated to the senate to fill out an unexpired term. six years and now desires to succeed himself.

Reagan began his officeholding career in this state forty years ago and almost without intermission has since occupied a high chair at the public crib. At the outbreak of the war he entered the cabinet of Jefferson Davis and at its close he was postmaster general of the Confederacy, and to-day he is the sole surviving member of that body. Returning to Texas at the close of that sanguinary period in the nation's history he once more resumed his avocation of office holding, entering congress as soon as his "reconstruction" resulted, remaining there until 18%, when he defeated Sam Beil Moxey for the senate. Resigning from this body in 1891 he at once accepted the chairmanship of the railway commission, a position he has constantly held to the present time with an unexpired four year tenure as yet ahead of him. Barring Queen Victoria, he is said to have the world's record in point of office tenure among the living.

Culberson's Political Career. Governor Culberson, while by twenty years the most youthful contestant for the place, may be said to have been in politics all his life. His father, Hon. David R. Culberson, like Reagan and Milis, has managed to hold office the major portion of the last half century. It was only last March that he rounded out a lifth of a century's continuous service in the lower house of congress only to be designated a few weeks later by President McKinley as the minority member of the national commission to codify the federal laws, a position he is reputed to be eminently qualified to fill by reason of his legal attainments and long service on the house iediciary committee. It was this master lawyer and politician whose fortune it was for Governor Culberson to have for a tutor. As evidence of the tutor's ability and the aptness of his pupil it is only necessary to state that in 1890, at the age of 24, the latter was attorney general of this state, while at 38 he was its chief executive and if at 42 he is not one of its senators in the national congress his friends as well as his numerous list of office holding relatives will be much disappointed. This young man is a politician born and he is admirably equipped for the contest he is waging against Mills and Reagan. As before stated, this campalgn is one of memor tissues—so far as the Democracy is con-Governor Culberson, while by twenty ments and long service on the house jediciary committee. As before stated, this campaign is one of menot issues—so far as the Democracy is concerned and hence it is with individuals and not with issues that one must deal in a cursory review of it.

Mills a Fallen Idol.

The time was when Mills was the idol of his party in this state, but as much can not be said of him to-day, for truth impels the statement that he is on the eve of the battle of his life, for it is the Hogg Democracy, so-called, seemingly invincible in this state since 1890, out after his political cuttiee. This, element is charging all sorts of things against the irascible senator,

Seventy Votes Necessary.

The next legislature will comprise thirtyone senators and 108 representatives, and to win out the successful candidate must poll seventy votes. Of the senators sixteen are holdovers, and of these the three candidates have about an equal share. Already the friends of each are calling upon legislative aspirants for their preferences in the premises, and it is already evident that no dodging is to be permitted.

Many are thus early predicting a legislative deadlock, in which event the friends both of Hon. Joe W. Balley and James Stephen Hogg will insist upon the selection of their favorite as a solution to the situation.

A suspicion already prevails in the minds of many that both gentlemen are exerting themselves with a view to bringing about just the condition of affairs stated with the hope of slipping in. That Hogg and Balley are each looking forward to a scat in the senate at some future time is well known in this state.

Chicago, Nov. 13.-W. J. Cook is a carpenter and never milked a cow in his life. The only specimens of the bovine species he has seen are the property of residents of Hyde park and Englewood. He claims to be unable to distinguish between the mcoley, Jersey, Hereford and Durham breeds. The milk which was once delivered at his home, 6009 Champlain avenue, came from a dairyman who permitted his herd to graze within the boundaries of Chicago.

Since his defeat for the speakership by Crisp his accribity of temper has been such that almost every Texan to visit Washington has returned strongly opposed to his retention there. If Mills at this time has any distinctive following in this state—barring the few federal officers aided to positions by him prior to his falling out with Cleveland—the fact is not apparent. At one time the Cleveland Democrats of the state were his stanch supporters, but his personal opposition was the more prosprovided and declared that the collowing. John H. Reagan was one of the fathers of the Bryan-Hogg-Altgeld-Tillman brand of Democracy. It was at the bidding of Hogg that he left the senate in 1892 to take the chairmanship of the state railway commission and pave the way for the appointment as his successor of Chilton, Hogg's boyhood friend, to a seat in the American house of lords. Coke's voluntary retirement from the senate in 1895 opened the way for Chilton's return to that body and hence the chance now presents itself for Reagan's restoration by the defeat of Mills. It is pretty generally understood in this state that in the event Hogg is forced to make a choice between Reagan and Culberson the former will receive his support. In which event the senatorial stock of this venerable office holder will be pretty near par.

ance of 1882 upon that issue. At the thick the rejoicing of the honest money Democrats in consequence of the victory achieved knew no bounds, and preparations were in progress to have a hundred of the leading speakers of the state take the stump for him, but, lo and behold! this young statesman, in his opening address of the campaign, delivered at Goliad a few weeks later, absolutely repudiated his platferm, and from that day henceforth became one of the most pronounced of the free silver adherents in the state. Since his induction into office as governor he has used the patronage at his disposal with a view to furthering his senatorial aspirations, and this, coupled with the fact that he has the present machinery at his back, renders his candidacy indeed formidable. His friends have in a measure rallied the younger element of the party to his support, and this fact gives him great prestige. On the hustings each of the candidates is strong and amply able to cope one with another, and that bitterness will enter into the canvass is already evident. of the other physicians in attendance.

TO RETIRE GREENBACKS.

Ex-Governor Merriam, of Minnesota, Has a New Plan of Currency Reform.

Washington, Nov. 13 .- Ex-Governor Merriam, of Minnesota, who is now in Washington, has a plan for getting the greenbacks out of circulation without treading upon the toes of those members of congress and citizens at large who regard the greenbacks with a superstitious reverence.

He proposes that the national banking

He proposes that the national banking law be so amended as to require the banks to deposit with the treasurer of the United States, as security for circulation, a certain percentage of greenbacks instead of all bonds, as now. Just what that percentage should be he thinks could be determined by expert investigation to ascertain what portion of the original $346,000,000 are still outstanding.

When that has been definitely determined, his idea would be to have the percentage large enough to lock up substantially all the greenbacks that are out.

just the condition or aniars stated with the hope of slipping in. That Hogg and Bailey are each looking forward to a scat in the senate at some future time is well known in this state.

To date not one of the gubernatorial candidates has made public his views touching state affairs, and until this is done reference in detail to this contest would be futile. It is admitted, however, that the fight for the nomination lies between Sayers and Crane, both of whom are strong.

The machine seems to be somewhat divided as between the two, but just which name goes on the slate is not determined. The conservative element of the party is largely for Sayers, and the fact that he has not been identified with local affairs in some years leads many to the belief that with him at the head of the state ticket the Democracy can be once more united. Crane is an Irishman who, it is charged, renounced Catholicism early in youth for Protestantism, alleging as reason for the act the unpopularity of the former faith. It is not stated here that this charge against him was ever substantiated. He has been for many years a leading counseior in the ranks of the free silver Democracy and was Hogg's running mate for lieutenant governor in the memorable campaign of 1852, at the time of the wide open Democratic split. The support of Wynne, Blake and Jester, the remaining candidates for the nomination, will admittedly be local in character, but if bulked and thrown to either Crane or Sayers at a guedin moment may prove the deciding factor in the convention contest.

The government, on its part, agrees to turn over 33 1-3 per cent of all receipts to the foreign syndicate. It also agrees to pay $100 cash for each family located as colonists and withdraw all the public lands from the market, giving the new syndicate the exclusive use of the government lands for their own colonizing purposes. The government also agrees to defray 50 per cent of the cost of any public buildings erected in any of the colonies, the plans of the same having previously been approved by the government.

that the government of Nicaragua has been making overtures to Great Britain, France and Japan, and perhaps to some other countries, in relation to the Nicaragua ca-nal, and from its own point of view has a perfect right to do so, regardless of the con-tention of the United States on the Monroe doctrine. Our government has forfeited doctrine. Our government has forfeited every claim upon Nicaragua for the control of the canal by its procrastination. We have made three treaties, and companies composed of American citizens have obtained four concessions during the last fifty years, and but one of them has ever done more than make a survey. If it were not for the dog-in-the-manger policy of the United States England would have built the canal long ago, but we are not doing anything ourselves, and are not allowing any other government to undertake the enterprise. For these reasons Nicaragua geels justified in making overtures to other nations with the hope of finding somebody to dig the canal.

Furthermore, the Nicaragua government is extremely hard up, and the people are very poor. The recent revolution ruined nearly everybody in the republic and the government had to subsist upon forced loans for several months. The ordinary revenues have not been sufficient to pay the ordinary expenses and sustain the extra military forces which the president has been compelled to keep under arms to prevent another revolution.

The Associated Press dispatches have already announced that a commission is on its way to this country for the purpose of trying to sell the government transportation system, which consists of about 100 miles of railway and a fleet of small passenger steamers on Lake Nicaragua. This sacrifice must be made in order to pay running expenses, for President Zelaya has exhausted both his funds and his credit and but for a military terrorism that prevails there would be another revolution immediately.

Whenever the Nicaraguan minister is questioned concerning the efforts of his government to negotiate with another power for the construction of the canal, he inquires how long the United States expects Nicaragua to wait, and when the United States expects to commence the work of construction. The canal bill came nearer becoming a law last winter than at any time in its history, and there is a prospect that it may be enacted at the coming session. There is no difference of opinion on the main proposition, but the committees of the two houses have never been able to agree upon the details. The peace and prosperity of Nicaragua depend upon that measure, and as long as it is unsettled and the United States delays action there will be conspiracy, intrigues and reselling

Revelations in the nature of "personal" expenses incurred by the late general manager were made known to the board on a hasty perusal. It was learned that Mr. Logan had disposed of the funds of the show in making the management of the exhibition popular with a lavish hand. He is said to have purchased several dozen souvenir neckties and presented them to his friends with the compliments of the promoters. According to reports, Mr. Logan took as efficient means as Hercules to keep the Coliseum stables in a hygienic condition. # COLD FACTS-Read Them.

The value of Pure Drugs is evidenced by the good results they accomplish. The results obtained from using our drugs are always the best, because our thorough knowledge of drugs enables us to always have those highest in purity and medicinal virtue. As a consequence, they achieve the result desired by your physician. Cheap drugs can not be other than an injustice to your doctor and a menace to your own health. Their value is best illustrated by a zero mark.

The sick desire above all things a return to health-the royal road there is through the physician's best aid—pure, unadulterated drugs, the kind you always obtain from the Diamond Drug Store. Our chief, but not the only, claim to your attention and patronage is our Prescription Department, but every drug store necessity and well known remedy of genuine first quality is here—the Best always, and always at a satis-
